NHD Free Teacher Webinar
Thursday, September 26, 2013
7pm-8pm EDT / 4pm-5pm PDT

National History Day and the Library of Congress are collaborating to offer a series of four webinars to help teachers learn more about Library of Congress resources.

Did you read the Library of Congress' article in the 2014 theme book? (Psst, if you missed it, it can be found at <http://www.nhd.org/ClassroomConnection.htm>)

Education Specialists from the Library of Congress are offering a free webinar to introduce teachers and students to the collections of the Library of Congress and how they can help with resources for the 2014 Rights and Responsibilities theme.

The hour-long program will start with an analysis of a primary source related to the "Rights and Responsibilities" theme and participants will be invited to discuss instructional strategies that can be used with primary sources. In addition, education specialists will highlight resources from the National Child Labor Committee. Join educators from across the country for an exciting hour of examining primary sources!

There is no charge for the webinar, but registration is required (login information will be sent to those who register). To register, choose one of the following options:
